

Yves M. Mombeleur, Chief Impact Officer at Clearinghouse CDFI (a 26-year-old for profit CDFI with $650MM in assets) and Managing Director at FVLCRUM Fund

As a veteran of community redevelopment efforts, with a history of facilitating innovative economic accessibility and inclusion for low-income, low-wealth communities, I am committed to the Opportunity Finance Network's mission. I would be privileged to serve on the board.

As the CCDFI Chief Impact Officer and FVLCRUM Fund Managing Director, I am honored to oversee CCDFI's impact and opportunity zone departments while also leading FVLCRUM's impact efforts. FVLCRUM Fund—a $250 million private equity fund—is the first private equity fund dedicated to bringing private capital dollars into low to moderate income communities. FVLCRUM does this by directly investing in middle market businesses to create jobs that provide living wages to people most in need. I am inspired by the combined power of CCDFI and FVLCRUM to help bridge the gap and bring economic opportunity to rural, urban and native communities.

Before joining the Clearinghouse CDFI/FVLCRUM Fund team, I held regulated banks and investment funds leadership positions. Most notably, I led JP Morgan Chase national community revitalization and neighborhood stabilization strategy, taking an innovative approach through which we facilitated discount sales and donations of houses to nonprofits nationwide.

I am an open-minded, level-headed critical thinker with the acute ability to see issues and resolutions from multiple viewpoints. I possess exceptional analytical, management, and financial skills with a history of leading nonprofits and CDFIs to actualize their goals and live their mission. As a proven progressive and mission driven professional, if elected, I will look at a diversity from an inclusionary lens to support OFN's mission of justice and excellence while pursuing innovation.
